FRENCH FLAG NOW

While the French Army Has Advanced Far Beyond

Paris, Oct. 13. Sixty-five hundred civilians were liberated when the French troops entered the chy of Laon, it was announced to-night by the war office. The French have passed far beyond the Oise and the Allette river.

The statement reads:

"Pursuing the enemy, our troops advanced this morning over cut-up roads which the enemy evacuated in het haste, leaving quantitles of material, shells, TWO BURLINGTON barbed wire and railroads intact. At 10:45 o'clock, our advancing guards reached the Laon-Labere railroad, where they were met by a violent machine gun fire coming from Besny-at-Loisy and La Montagne, which were occupied by enemy

THE BLACK COAT AND THE RED. By Margaret Widdemer of The Vigi-

[Miss Widdemer has just returned from a visit to the cantonments of the West and South in the interests of the War Camp Community Service. She is the author of "A Rose Garden Husband" and her new series of Camp Fire Girls' books proves that she knows girls-in war times and peace times.]

An old English proverb says: "The black coat and the red

Turn a poor woman's head."
The red is khaki now, but the proverb still holds good. Somehow a hov in khaki seems different. It is almost a shock to see a brown-clad lad reading the same baseball magazine, whistling the same tunes, as he did when he wore a business suit. The uniform makes us feel as if there was a difference. He is at once more and less our own-and we feel as if we could speak to him, as we wouldn't have thought we could when he wore gray or blue suit and was on his way to office. He's different, somehow. We feel just that wav-all of us.

Only he isn't different. He's just exthe same lad he was in citizens' clothing, the one girls would have been ashamed to flirt with. And-this is the thing to remember, even if it doesn't seem true-he'll feel just the same personal, American-boy way-whatever his individual way was before about being 'picked up." If he's the wrong kind of boy, he'll let you do it, and if he's the right kind he'll think just as much less of you, as he did before he went into the

The fact that rheumatism depends on mexices of uric acid in the blood, affeeting the muscles and joints, producing inflammation, stiffness and pain, is well established. Cleveland, O., Oct. 14.-American union ailordom's vanguard, more than 200 delegates of the United Garment Workers America, representing 68,000 members of the craft in the United States and Canada, have arrived for the biennial convention which opened here to-day and will continue until Oct. 19.

Larger, ecretary of the organization, which affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. "There is no fixed program for the convention, but the delegates will bring up for discussion and settlement such problems as have arisen in the past four years, the 1916 biennial having been omitted.

Among the questions expected to be liscussed, according to Mr. Larger, will be that of holding the convention every four years, instead of biennially. Wage increases, use of apprentices, and working conditions also may be on the pro-

DOES CLIMBING STAIRS AFFECT YOUR HEART?

of Breath After the Slight-

It is common for people who suffer from lack of blood to get short of breath and have palpitation of the heart after slight exertion, such as walking up stairs, that it has come to be what the doctors call the staircase test for anemia or bloodlessness.

It is the red corpuseles in the blood that carry the oxygen which constantly renews life and which burns up impuri ties. People with rich, red blood do not get "out of breath" easily. If your blood is thin and pale, it is possible to build it up with a tonic that will increase its power to carry oxygen, the great lifesustaining element.

A lack of blood resulted in a general run-down condition in the health of Mrs. Eva Rice of 43 Weldon street, St. Al-

Many people who need a tonic neglect because they are not sick enough to cause them any worse feeling than one of fatigue and discomfort.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood and send renewed health and strength to every part of the body. This tonic treatment is useful in dys

o "watch your step" on Broadway these gasless Sunday nights. Without the stendy flow of motor vehicles that formerly kept the traffic squad as busy on "day of rest" as any other, the asphalt seems all but deserted. 'ansom, sir?"

The once familiar salutation, all but forgotten during a generation of automobile supremacy, smites the ear. The cabby has come into his own again. Horses that had been demoted to common equine labor have been recalled to their former places between the curved shafts. Vehicles of the eighties and nineties-two-wheeled and fourwheeled have been resurrected from the dust and cobwebs of livery stables which, once a week, have taken on some of heir ancient activity.

Hansoms, coupes, barouches, and ever few victorias, shabby genteel in faded and time-worn upholstery, rattle over the pavements and line the curbs, to the delight of the old Knickerbockers and to the amusement of the younger throngs who have never known the metropolis except in its present regime of horseless

NO OCCASION FOR PANIC.

Spain in May, has all the appearance of grip or la grippe, which has swept over the world in numerous epidemics as far back as history runs. Hippocrates refers to an epidemie in 412 B. C., which is regarded by many to have been influenza. Every century has had its attacks. Beginning with 1831, this country has had five epidemics, the last in 1889-90. There is no occasion for panie-influenza itself has a very low percentage of fatalities -not over one death out of every four hundred cases, according to the N. C. Board of Health. The chief danger lies in complications arising, attacking, principally, patients in a run-down condition-those who don't go to bed soon enough, or those who get up too early.

THE SYMPTOMS.

Grippe, or influenza, as it is now called, usually begins with a chill fol-lowed by aching, feverishness, and sometimes nausea and dizziness, and a general feeling of weakness and depression. The temperature is from 100 to 104, and the fever usually lasts from three to five days. The germs attack the mucous membrane, or lining of the air passages-nose, throat all, keep free from colds, as colds irriand brouchial tubes-there is usually tate the lining of the air passages and a hard cough, especially bad at night, oftentimes a sore throat or tonsilitis, places for the germs. and frequently all the appearances of a severe head cold.

Hot, wet towels should be applied over the throat, chest and back between the shoulder blades to open the pores. Then VapoRub should be rubbed in over the parts until the skin is red, spread on thickly and covered with two thicknesses of hot flannel cloths. Leave the clothing loose around the neck, as the heat of the body liberates the ingredients in the form of vapors. These vapors, inhaled with each breath, carry the medication directly to the parts affected. At the same time, VapoRub is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, attracting the blood to the surface, and thus aids in relieving the congestion within.

HOW TO AVOID THE DISEASE.
